The Dreams and Legacy of Dr. Martin L. King, Jr.: “Deferred” Does Not Mean Denial

The dreams of Dr. King are still prominent and in many ways represent the moral fabric of contemporary society. Dr. L. Oliver Robinson, superintendent of the Mohonasen School District, will discuss how Dr. King's aspirations transcend social demarcations by emphasizing peace over war, love over hate, and tolerance over discrimination.

African-Americans in the United States Military: A Historical Perspective

For more than 200 years, African Americans have participated in every conflict in United States history. Dr. Allen B. Ballard, professor of History and Africana Studies at the University at Albany, will discuss how these brave soldiers simultaneously defended this country and endured individual and institutional racism.

A Battered Woman's Story: Surviving Domestic Violence

Linda White served more than 13 years of a 17-years-to-life sentence she received for the 1999 killing of her estranged boyfriend. The jury rejected claims of self-defense and domestic abuse, but in 2002, she was granted clemency. Ms. White will share her story of survival. After Ms. White's presentation, there will be a question and answer session.

The United States and Iraq: Quagmire or Achievement?

One year after the American overthrow of Saddam Hussein, Dr. Steven A. Leibo, of The Sage Colleges and WAMC Radio, will take stock of what has been lost and what has been accomplished in this conflict. After Dr. Leibo's presentation, there will be a question and answer session.

That's How It Is, My Child

In 1955, Fritz and Hildegard von Waldenburg immigrated to America from Berlin, Germany. Fritz, an artist, and Hildegard, an author/artist, will share their triumphant story of loss and survival under Hitler's grim regime, and how the politics of the Third Reich harmed and influenced art. Siobhán Quinn, Coordinator of Cultural Affairs at Hudson Valley Community College, will moderate this presentation. A book-signing and question and answer session will follow.
